

Tips for Writing Web Pages

Chuang-Chieh Lin

January 10, 2005

Here I suggest several principles for writing web pages as follows:

- a. You'd better to make the web pages clear and not too complicated.
- b. People on line can get on your web pages quickly.
- c. You can put some information about you and what you would like people to know on the web pages.
- d. The colour of your web pages should be as pastel as possible.
- e. Never putting on too many advertising links.